ABOUT US

Uphold Earth Enterprises (operating under brands like Reedkraft and Tribeskraft) is a social enterprise dedicated to fostering a sustainable way of life through innovative products, services, and projects. Our mission is rooted in the belief that the earth's resources exist to enrich lives while ensuring harmony with all living beings—animals, plants, and people alike.

At the heart of what we do lies the intersection of design, sustainability, and social impact. We are passionate about environmental regeneration and believe it goes hand in hand with driving meaningful social change. Our commitment is reflected in every eco-friendly product we create, particularly our range of sustainable bags made from natural and environmentally gentle materials.

We aim to prove that sustainability and style can coexist. Our bags are thoughtfully designed to be both functional and fashionable, offering our customers products that align with their values without compromising on quality.

Our dedication to sustainability is evident in our use of natural, minimally processed materials that uphold our promise to the planet. Backed by a core team with over 15 years of experience in promoting sustainability-focused initiatives.
